CHAPTER 3: THE PAPERS TRAIL

Why Cite? 62

Reason 1: You Need to Give Credit Where Credit Is Due 63
Reason 2: You Need to Let A Reader Know Where to Learn More 64
Reason 3: You May Need to Give Sources in Order to Fix Responsibility 65
Reason 4: You May Cite Some Sources to Put Your Ideas in Context and/or to Build Credibility 66

How Do I Handle the Citation? 67

Precaution 1: Handle the Citation So That A Reader Can Easily Tell Where Information Taken from a Source Begins and Ends 67
Precaution 2: Be Sure That Everyone Gets Due Credit and Takes Due Responsibility, Not Just the First or the Loudest 69
Precaution 3: Recognizing the Nature of Profession Expectations, Be Alert to Multiples and Overlaps 71
Precaution 4: Remember That Anonymity and Eccentricity Are Part of the Profession Too 74
Precaution 5: Give Page or Chapter Numbers for Direct Quotations, Statistics, and Other Things That Are Page- or Chapter-specific That Readers Might Be Anxious to Verify 75
Precaution 6: Designate Personal Communications as Such; the Reader Will Just Have to Trust You 75
Precaution 7: Avoid Leaving Blanks That May Seem Like Something Has Been Forgotten 76
Precaution 8: When a Citation Ends a Sentence, Be Careful to Get It On the Right Side of the Period 77
How Do I Handle the Reference List?  78
   Anticipate Needs and Provide for Them  78
   Format the Page According to APA Conventions  79
   Alphabetize Items on Reference List According to the Surname of the First Author  80
How Do I Remember All the Format Pieces?  82
   Position 1: Author (Surnames, Initials, and Lots Of Commas and Periods)  82
   Position 2: Publication Year In Parenthesis  84
   Position 3: Title—“Simplify, Simplify, Simplify”  86
