Course Information

Description
This course provides an overview of theoretical concepts and practical issues related to group counseling. The course covers counselor issues, client selection criteria, client and group preparation, group structuring, group processes, evidence-based group practice, multicultural competence, and basic therapeutic techniques.

Given that this class will be delivered over Zoom, students will not be able to lead or participate in group process sessions in person. Thus, the purpose is to introduce students to concepts of group dynamics and development as well as the conceptual aspects of leading a group. Please note that the schedule, readings, and policies are subject to change at the instructor's discretion.

Course Objectives
1. To learn major concepts in contemporary theory and dynamics of group counseling.
2. To develop a rationale for different group structures and processes.
3. To gain content of practical group skills of forming, conducting, and ending group counseling.

Prerequisites
MULTICULTURAL/DIVERSITY GUIDELINES AND COMPETENCIES:
You are expected to be familiar with the APA and APA Division 17 Multicultural Guidelines and Competencies.

Please read and become familiar with the information below:
Practice Guidelines for Group Psychotherapy (AGPA)

Grading Policy
A variety of methods will be used to approach the course objectives through Zoom. These include discussions, video presentations, project presentations, and readings.

Assignments

1. Theoretical Orientation Presentation

   Students in pairs will study a theoretical approach to group therapy and give a Zoom presentation (20 minutes including Q&A) to the rest of the class. Presentations should cover the premises, practices, role of the group leader, desired outcomes, and evaluation of the theoretical approaches they are assigned to study. Introductory material about specific theories and approaches are provided from your textbook, though students are encouraged to conduct a search on their own for various group theories and include outside sources (references) as necessary. Students will also put together and email a handout summarizing the orientations for the rest of the class. The presentation is worth up to 20% of your grade.

2. Reading Reactions
I expect you to complete all of the assigned readings before class so that you will be fully prepared to engage in discussion with other classmates. You are required to email me (to reduce paper usage and increase faster response) a brief reaction of the readings based on your cognitive and affective experiences (no more than one paragraph (you can use bullet points as well to synthesize the readings)). Please email me no later than 5:00pm the night before each class. Your brief paragraph is meant to facilitate your learning by addressing: (1) What ideas, concepts, or methods did you agree or disagree with or question – and what does your reaction teach you?; (2) How will you apply the concepts/methods of the reading in your work?; (3) What concepts/methods will you teach and discuss during class? Please include at least 1-3 BURNING question(s) you had from the readings for class discussion. The reading reactions are worth up to 20% of your grade.

3. Group Proposal

Proposal for Diversity, or Age-Related, or Specialized Groups

Assigned groups of students will generate a group proposal for a diverse/age-related (e.g., multicultural, children, adolescents, adults, and elderly, etc.) or specialized (e.g., trauma stress, persons with disabilities, anger management, military personnel, divorce support, etc.) population.

- To complete the assignment, students should follow the guidelines found in the Corey text—specifically the bulleted points on pages 148-149. Students can also refer to the group proposals on pages 335-351, and those contained in Chapter 11 for inspiration.

- Group proposals can be for a variety of target populations and can be a combination of the types of groups listed above. Students can work in groups of two or individually. The purpose of this assignment is to give you the opportunity to practice creating a proposal for a group you think you might be likely to lead in the future. Proposals will be turned in to be graded but will also be shared among class members. The proposal is worth up to 20% of your grade.

4. Diversity Research Paper

Diversity and Multicultural Factors in Group Work

Students will write 4-5 pages (without references) research and reflection based paper outlining their current understanding of working with issues of (1) diversity, prejudice, and discrimination in groups. Students will reflect on the (2) importance of understanding their own social and cultural context as well as the (3) contexts of group members to create an effective group environment. You can refer to Chapter 1 for helpful ways to formulate your paper (Worth up to 20% of your grade).

5. Learning Goals Presentation

Learning Goals Project

Students will be asked to set one to three learning goals at the beginning of the semester. Minimal guidelines will be provided, and learning goals will be approved by the instructor. Examples of learning goals might be: learn more about client’s perspective of group, gain better understanding of the power of group, increase multicultural competence in group therapy, learn more about the research in group therapy, gain better understanding of the role of a therapist in group, etc. Creative ideas are encouraged.
Students will give a 3-5 minute (max) presentation to the class at the end of the semester about their experience focusing on their learning goal(s) this semester and what they learned (worth up to 20% of your grade).

BYU Honor Code

In keeping with the principles of the BYU Honor Code, students are expected to be honest in all of their academic work. Academic honesty means, most fundamentally, that any work you present as your own must in fact be your own work and not that of another. Violations of this principle may result in a failing grade in the course and additional disciplinary action by the university. Students are also expected to adhere to the Dress and Grooming Standards. Adherence demonstrates respect for yourself and others and ensures an effective learning and working environment. It is the university's expectation, and my own expectation in class, that each student will abide by all Honor Code standards. Please call the Honor Code Office at 422-2847 if you have questions about those standards.

Preventing Sexual Discrimination and Harassment

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 prohibits sex discrimination against any participant in an educational program or activity that receives federal funds. The act is intended to eliminate sex discrimination in education. Title IX covers discrimination in programs, admissions, activities, and student-to-student sexual harassment. BYU's policy against sexual harassment extends not only to employees of the university, but to students as well. If you encounter unlawful sexual harassment or gender-based discrimination, please talk to your professor; contact the Equal Employment Office at 422-5895 or 367-5689 (24-hours); or contact the Honor Code Office at 422-2847.

Students with Disabilities

Brigham Young University is committed to providing a working and learning atmosphere that reasonably accommodates qualified persons with disabilities. If you have any disability which may impair your ability to complete this course successfully, please contact the Services for Students with Disabilities Office (422-2767). Reasonable academic accommodations are reviewed for all students who have qualified, documented disabilities. Services are coordinated with the student and instructor by the SSD Office. If you need assistance or if you feel you have been unlawfully discriminated against on the basis of disability, you may seek resolution through established grievance policy and procedures by contacting the Equal Employment Office at 422-5895, D-285 ASB.

Academic Honesty Policy

The first injunction of the BYU Honor Code is the call to be honest. Students come to the university not only to improve their minds, gain knowledge, and develop skills that will assist them in their life's work, but also to build character. President David O. McKay taught that 'character is the highest aim of education' (The Aims of a BYU Education, p. 6). It is the purpose of the BYU Academic Honesty Policy to assist in fulfilling that aim. BYU students should seek to be totally honest in their dealings with others. They should complete their own work and be evaluated based upon that work. They should avoid academic dishonesty and misconduct in all its forms, including but not limited to plagiarism, fabrication or falsification, cheating, and other academic misconduct.

Plagiarism Policy

Writing submitted for credit at BYU must consist of the student's own ideas presented in sentences and paragraphs of his or her own construction. The work of other writers or speakers may be included when appropriate (as in a research paper or book review), but such material must support the student's own work (not substitute for it) and must be clearly identified by appropriate introduction and punctuation and by footnoting or other standard referencing.

Respectful Environment Policy

"Sadly, from time to time, we do hear reports of those who are at best insensitive and at worst insulting in their comments to and about others... We hear derogatory and sometimes even defamatory comments about those with different political, athletic, or ethnic views or experiences. Such behavior is completely out of place at BYU, and I enlist the aid of all to monitor carefully and, if necessary, correct any such that might occur here, however inadvertent or unintentional."

"I worry particularly about demeaning comments made about the career or major choices of women or men either directly or about members of the BYU community generally. We must remember that personal agency is a fundamental principle and that none of us has the right or option to criticize the lawful choices of another." President Cecil O. Samuelson, Annual University Conference, August 24, 2010

"Occasionally, we ... hear reports that our female faculty feel disrespected, especially by students, for choosing to work at BYU, even though each one has been approved by the BYU Board of Trustees. Brothers and sisters, these things ought not to be. Not here. Not at a university that shares a constitution with the School of the Prophets." Vice President John S. Tanner, Annual University Conference, August 24, 2010
